Cynthia Owens is the Chief Compliance Officer for Affiliated Monitors, Inc. (AMI). Since joining AMI in 2005, she has been a key contributor to business growth through facilitating contractors within specialized areas. Her leadership allows AMI to assess and define the ethical culture of clients, monitor their implementation of internal ethics and compliance programs, and develop and implement training programs for these clients. She is an expert in integrating integrity and compliance into healthcare and corporate processes to produce successful outcomes. In addition, Ms. Owens serves as Conflict Manager for an AMI client, overseeing conflicts of interest for a global public-private partnership focused on preclinical discovery and development.

Ms. Owens began her career in the medical field in 1989. She focused exclusively on clinical research from 1994-2005. In addition to co-founding Asentral Inc., Institutional Review Board (IRB), Ms. Owens owns and operates a national consulting service, which integrates clinical operations with research practices to improve the overall performance within each site's unique culture. She has written and implemented standard operating procedures, recruitment plans, staff training manuals, quality assurance guidelines and directed all aspects of public relations for independent clinical research sites. Ms. Owens is a nationally recognized expert on the conduction of clinical research having served as Director of Clinical Trials for a variety of indications from diabetes to cardiovascular disease. A featured speaker at national symposiums on good clinical practice, Ms. Owens is recognized as a leader in her field.

Ms. Owens was awarded an honorary degree (Associate of Science in Business Management) from Northern Essex Community College in 2016. In addition, she is a Certified Clinical Research Coordinator (CCRC).
